The Pied
Piper

Once there was a town that was full of rats.

The pied piper came to town and said he could kill all the rats. It would cost one hundred gold coins. The town's people agreed to pay.

The pied piper played his pipe and all the rats came running.

The rats followed him. He lead the rats out of town.

And off a cliff.

He returned to town to get his one hundred gold coins. The town's people refused to pay. The pied piper was angry and he made a plan.

Again, the pied piper played his pipe. Now the town's children followed him.

He lead them into a cave.

The town's people looked for the children but could not find them. Nobody saw the children ever again.